

Editor's Note

SPECIAL LESSON PLAN ISSUE

SKILLS TO BE EMPHASIZED:

Listening, speaking, reading, and writing in EFL settings worldwide.

OBJECTIVE:

To provide readers of English Teaching Forum with creative lesson plans that they can use in their own classrooms. After reading this issue of Forum, teachers should be able to use these lesson plans to:

- teach their students new vocabulary.
- interest their student in new ideas.
- engage their students in dynamic language learning activities.

MATERIALS:

Colorful photos and flashcards are provided; teachers can use them to enhance vocabulary learning and other classroom activities.

ACTIVITIES:

The lessons include a variety of activities that can be used as they are, adapted to fit higher or lower skill levels, or modified to better fit the local teaching context.

FOLLOW-UP ACTIVITY

Send feedback about these lesson plans to: etforum@state.gov

Special Thanks to Joan Kang Shin, instructor of an E-Teacher (online distance-learning) course sponsored by the Office of English Language Programs, which produces Forum. Teachers in Professor Shin's course wrote the lesson plans published in this issue; Professor Shin selected lessons and helped prepare them for publication. We appreciate her contribution to Forum.

—MK