DIY Tips

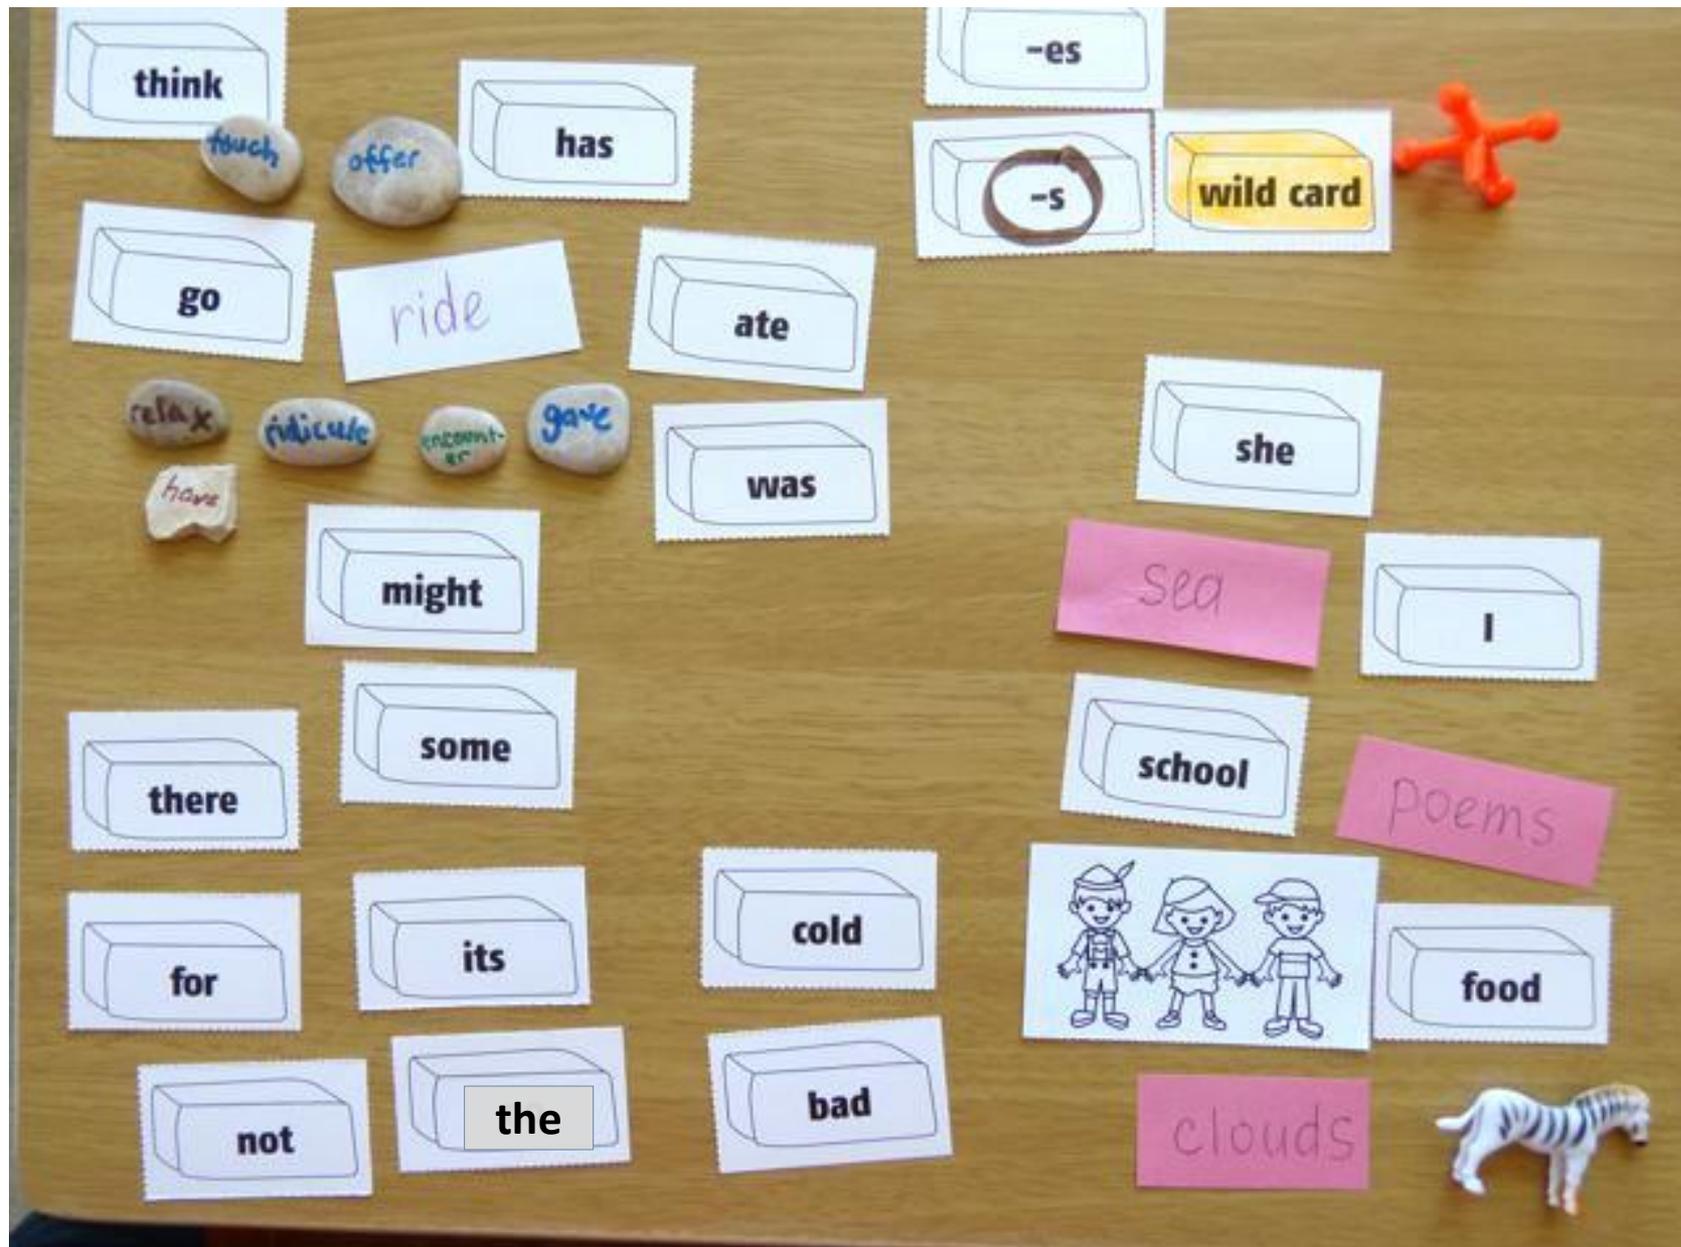

1. Have students make their own bricks
2. Use stones, plastic, cardboard
3. Incorporate small objects or pictures
4. Have a re-usable collection of word bricks (500 is easy!)
5. Make Magic S and Wild Card distinctive

Let's Play!

AMERICAN ENGLISH

A E AMERICAN ENGLISH

Management Tips

1. Play in teams of 3-5
2. Have each group clear a playing surface
3. Forget the pens and paper!
4. Give points to create friendly competition.
5. Make sure each team has at least one wild card and one Magic S
6. Give more wild cards to lower level groups
7. Rotate some Word Bricks every ten minutes from group to group.

How many bricks per group?

Many Possible Games

1. Sentence Race – Groups get points for each sentence they make
2. Brick Bingo – a fun listening and word-recognition game
3. Sentence Boundaries – Challenge groups to make a sentence of exactly 8 words!
4. Longest Sentence – Which group can make the longest sentence with 20 bricks?
5. Sorting Race – Set the timer. Which group is first to sort their bricks into pronouns, nouns, prepositions, and verbs?
6. Describe and Guess – like Guess What. Describe a work on a brick until the rest of the group guesses it

... and more!

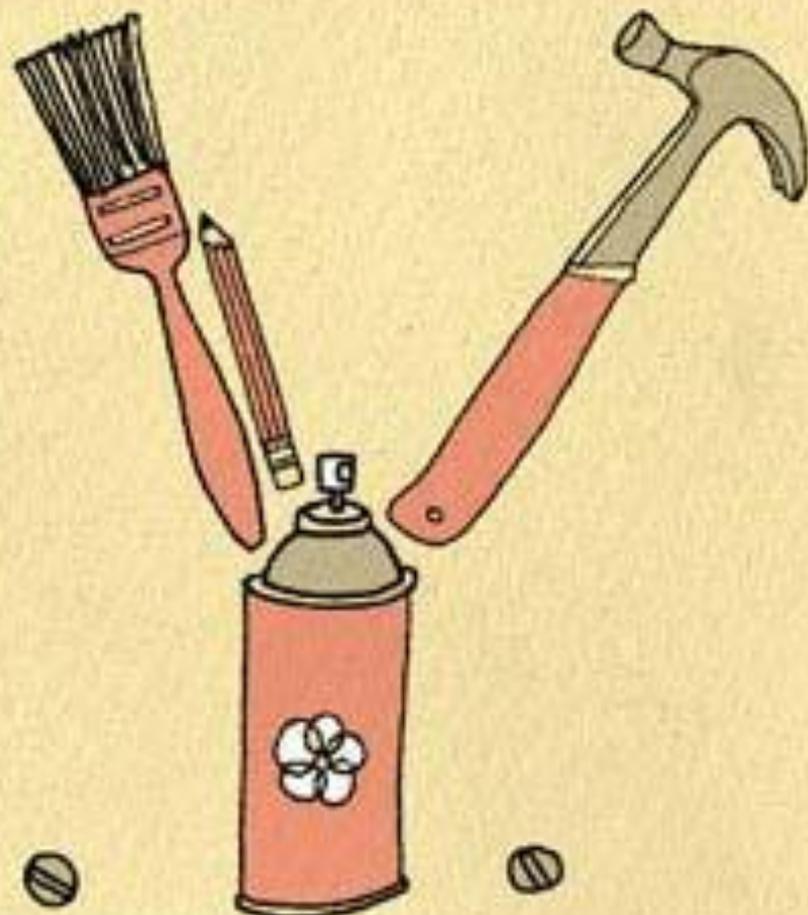

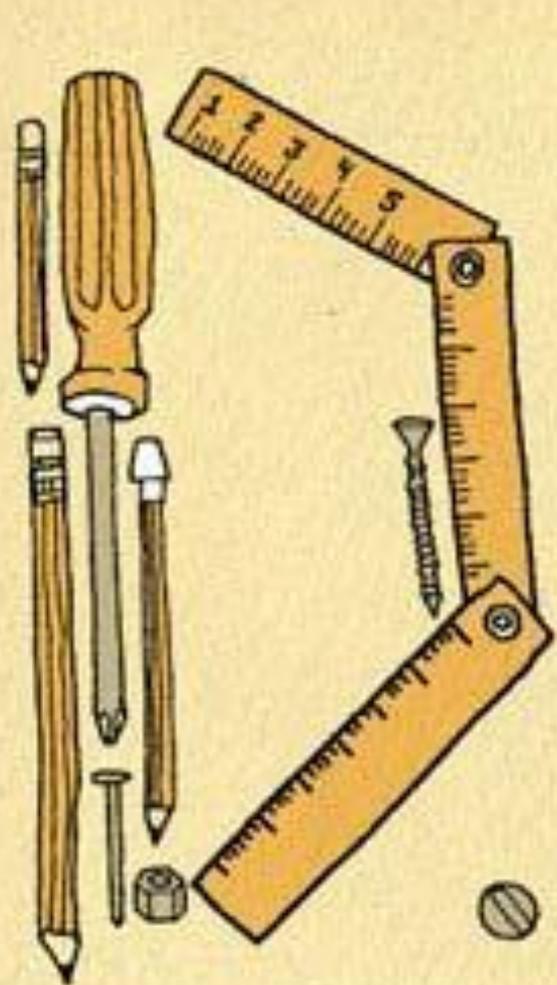

Activate Brings Smiles

Introducing Activate, Game-Based Curriculum

On September 21, the new ECA material, Activate: Games for Learning American English was introduced to 100 teachers from 25 Cirebon schools in a four-hour workshop given by RELO Eran Williams. In addition to playing games, the workshop discussed designing context-specific materials and how to integrate them into a lesson plan. The RELO provided a copy of Activate and the computer game Trace Effects for each participating school. With Indonesia's new national curriculum cutting English instruction to two periods a week, it is especially important to build student motivation and encourage students to use English outside of class.
