

Don't Be Inane

Get rid of the train
That roars in your brain
Your sanity is likely to wane
Relying only on others is in vain
Many of them are eager to feign
And over you, they tend to reign
Once they mesmerize you, they will never refrain
Break the chain and seize your own rein
Only your own wits can help you attain
The shoreline before you faint

We Long for Peace
No need to retrace
Previous faults or disgrace
Just look ahead and think twice
How lovely it could be nice
If we live together in one place

With good grace
Show a smiling face
That fills the whole space
With a message of peace
That none dare to efface
