I am so clever that sometimes I don't understand a single word of what I am saying.

- Oscar Wilde
When one loves one’s Art no service seems too hard.

We can’t buy one minute of time with cash; if we could, rich people would live longer.

The true adventurer goes forth aimless and uncalculating to meet and greet unknown fate.

Life is made up of sobs, sniffles, and smiles, with sniffles predominating.

The Gift of the Magi

ONE DOLLAR AND EIGHTY-SEVEN CENTS. That was all. She had put it aside, one cent and then another and then another, in her careful buying of meat and other food. Della counted it three times. One dollar and eighty-seven cents. And the next day would be Christmas.

There was nothing to do but fall on the bed and cry. So Della did it.

While the lady of the home is slowly growing quieter, we can look at the home. Furnished rooms at a cost of $8 a week. There is little more to say about it.

In the hall below was a letter-box too small to hold a letter. There was an electric bell, but it could not make a sound. Also there was a name beside the door: “Mr. James Dillingham Young.”
When the name was placed there, Mr. James Dillingham Young was being paid $30 a week. Now, when he was being paid only $20 a week, the name seemed too long and important. It should perhaps have been “Mr. James D. Young.” But when Mr. James Dillingham Young entered the furnished rooms, his name became very short indeed. Mrs. James Dillingham Young put her arms warmly about him and called him “Jim.” You have already met her. She is Della.

Della finished her crying and cleaned the marks of it from her face. She stood by the window and looked out with no interest. Tomorrow would be Christmas Day, and she had only $1.87 with which to buy Jim a gift. She had put aside as much as she could for months, with this result. Twenty dollars a week is not much. Everything had cost more than she had expected. It always happened like that.

Only $ 1.87 to buy a gift for Jim. Her Jim. She had had many happy hours planning something nice for him. Something nearly good enough. Something almost worth the honor of belonging to Jim.

There was a looking-glass between the windows of the room. Perhaps you have seen the kind of looking-glass that is placed in $8 furnished rooms. It was very narrow. A person could see only a little of himself at a time. However, if he was very thin and moved very quickly, he might be able to get a good view of himself. Della, being quite thin, had mastered this art.

Suddenly she turned from the window and stood before the glass. Her eyes were shining brightly, but her face had lost its color. Quickly she pulled down her hair and let it fall to its complete length.

The James Dillingham Youngs were very proud of two things which they owned. One thing was Jim’s gold watch. It had once belonged to his father. And, long ago, it had belonged to his father’s father. The other thing was Della’s hair.

If a queen had lived in the rooms near theirs, Della would have washed and dried her hair where the queen could see it. Della knew her hair was more beautiful than any queen’s jewels and gifts.

Activating Background Knowledge
THE GIFT OF THE MAGI

PRE-READING ACTIVITY 1: GIFTS IN YOUR LIFE

"The Gift of the Magi" is a story about a young married couple, Jim and Della, who are very poor. This story tells how they buy Christmas gifts for each other when they have saved very little money. Before you read, think about how you give and receive gifts in your own life and why these gifts are meaningful.

PART 1: WHAT MAKES A GIFT VALUABLE?

Directions:

Fill each box with the name of a valuable gift that you have received. Remember that gifts can be valuable in many ways (not just how much they cost).

For each gift, mark how expensive the gift was on line (1).

Mark how meaningful the gift was on line (2).

Explain why the gift was valuable on line (3). If you are working with a partner, compare your answers. The first box is completed for you as an example.

(3) The yarn to make the scarf did not cost very much money, but my mother stayed up late after work to make it for me.
This bicycle and the ladybug bell were given to my by a friend who traded with a neighbor to get the bike for free. The bell cost just a few bucks. The gift was so meaningful because I use the bike everyday to get to work. My nickname is Goldbug, so the bell has special meaning.

WHILE READING ACTIVITIES

Plot Development
WHILE-READING ACTIVITY 1: STORY DEVELOPMENT

In this activity, you will learn about the structure of the story “The Cop and the Anthem”.

PART 1: STRUCTURE OF A STORY

“The Cop and the Anthem” is a story, a narrative account. When authors write narratives, they usually use a similar structure to develop the story. The chart below illustrates four main elements of the story and also explains what each element means.

PART 2: MAKING A STORY STRUCTURE MAP

First, the author sets up when and where a story takes place. The author also introduces the main characters. This is called the “Set-Up.” Then, a problem is introduced, and characters must decide what to do. This is called “The Problem.” Once the characters decide what to do to solve the problem, there may be a further conflict if the plan does not go well. This is called “The Conflict.” At the end of the story the problems and conflicts are resolved. This is “The Resolution.” This activity will help you discover the narrative structure of this story.

Directions:
1. While reading, answer the questions in the four boxes on the next page.
2. Write your answers on the lines provided in each box. The first question has been completed as an example.
3. Begin with Set-Up. Then answer the questions in Problem, Conflict, and finally Resolution in that order.

WHILE READING ACTIVITIES

Character Development
WHILE-READING ACTIVITY 1: SUPPORTING DETAILS

At the beginning of the story, the narrator describes the difference between true adventurers and cautious people who prefer to avoid risks. This activity will help you understand the differences listed by O. Henry and learn more about Rudolf Steiner as a true adventurer.

PART 1: DIFFERENCES BETWEEN TRUE ADVENTURERS AND CAUTIOUS PEOPLE

Directions:

1. As you read page 85, pay attention to the way the narrator describes different people.
2. Read the details in the Character Descriptions box carefully.
3. Match the descriptions with either True Adventurer or Cautious Person. Write the letter for each description in the corresponding column in the double-arrow graph below. An example has been provided for you.

Character Descriptions

A. takes actions with no specific purpose
B. prefers to repeat something that has been done before
C. takes actions with a specific purpose
D. is ready to accept adventures
E. wishes to follow others
F. is one of the few people in this group
G. usually has a long quiet life
H. knows true romance and adventure
Directions:

1. At the bottom of page 85, there are two paragraphs about Rudolf Steiner. As you read them, think about how the author describes Rudolf Steiner as a true adventurer.
2. In the boxes below, write three supporting details about Rudolf Steiner as a true adventurer from page 85. You can either copy the sentence from the story or retell the details in your own words. An example has been provided for you.

1. Always goes out seeking something different at night.

3.

4.
WHILE-READING ACTIVITY 2: THE MAIN CHARACTER AND YOU

In the story “The Green Door,” Rudolf makes many decisions that show he is a true adventurer. As you read the story, this activity will help you predict what will happen to him.

Directions:

1. As you read pages 85-90, stop at the major events listed in the table below.
2. After each major event, choose what will happen next to Rudolf and write the corresponding letter under Rudolf Steiner.
3. Choose what you would do if this event happened in your life. Write the letter for your choice under Me. An example has been completed for you.
4. Check to see if your prediction came true before you move to the next event. Circle Yes if your prediction came true or No if your prediction did not come true.
