Jim was never late.

Della holded the watch chain in her hand and sitted near the door where he always entered. Then she heared his step in the hall and her face losed color for a moment. She often sayed little prayers quietly about simple everyday things.

And now she sayed: “Please God, make him think I’m still pretty.”

The door opened and Jim stepped in.

Listen again and write the correct forms of the words you underlined.

What do you notice about the words you underlined? What do they have in common?
